

Avinna Trzesinski

Avinna Trzesinski is a research officer at the Australian Indigenous Health InfoNet, based at Edith Cowan University in Western Australia. The Health InfoNet is a free to access web resource that contributes to 'closing the gap' in health between Indigenous and other Australians by developing and maintaining the evidence base to inform practice and policy. A member of the team since 2011, Avinna has research responsibilities including the Australian Indigenous Alcohol and Other Drugs Knowledge Centre resource, Indigenous eye health and CQI. Avinna has a Bachelor of Science (Health Promotion) from Curtin University and is currently undertaking a Masters of Public Health at University of Western Australia.
