

Ashley Young

Mr Ashley Young is a Senior Clinical Business Analyst with Hunter New England Health in NSW, leading the implementation and mainstreaming of telehealth as a standard mode of service delivery across all specialities and disciplines in the district. A pathology scientist by background, Ashley moved into redesign project management roles in 2005, and into IT system design and implementation in 2010. Hunter New England Health is successfully delivering clinical telehealth services to patients in their homes, at their GP practices, Aboriginal Medical Services and Aged Care Facilities, and lobbying hard to mainstream the service delivery for the benefit of all patients when clinically appropriate.