Ellen McIntyre

Ellen McIntyre is Professor and Director with the Primary Health Care Research and Information Service (PHC RIS) at Flinders University in South Australia where she conducts applied research to enhance the sharing of knowledge and information among researchers, policy makers, practitioners, primary health care organisations and consumer representatives. She is also a researcher in breastfeeding. Ellen coordinated breastfeeding education programs for health professionals from 1989 until 2006. In 2005, Ellen received an OAM (Medal of the Order of Australia) for service to the community as a lactation consultant and counsellor, and through the development and delivery of information and education courses on breastfeeding. She is a past Director and Chair of the International Board of Lactation Consultant Examiners (IBLCE).