

Gerri Malone

Gerri Malone is currently the Director of Professional Services for CRANAP*lus*, the peak professional body for remote health. Gerri is a Registered Nurse & Midwife and her career has been very heavily based in the rural and remote health context. A significant period of time was spent with RFDS across several bases in clinical Flight Nurse role as well as management. A variety of education and professional development roles, policy position with State Government (Country Health SA) and Director of ARNM (Australian Rural Nurses & Midwives. Overseas experience included a contract with International Committee of the Red Cross in East Africa. Gerri has been a member of numerous national advisory bodies related to workforce and other professional issues in the context of remote health and is a Council and Board member of the NRHA.