

Karen Thomas

Karen Thomas is a Senior Project Officer in Prevention Projects at the Northern Territory Medicare Local (formally General Practice Network NT). Since moving to Darwin in 2011 Karen has worked at the NTML in programs including workforce and eHealth. She is currently undertaking a Graduate Diploma in Public Health through the Menzies School of Health Research and Charles Darwin University. Karen has a keen interest in the social determinants of Indigenous health and the importance of addressing these challenges through preventative health initiatives to facilitate community empowerment and sustainable capacity building.